1. Find a day and time (outside of class time) when you would all be available to meet. You won't necessarily have to meet weekly since there are times for you to meet built into our schedule. But there will surely be some weeks when you might need some extra time to meet. These meetings could be virtual or in person depending on your need and preference.

Saturday afternoons (After 1p cst) over Discord. If in person meetings are required, will be set up ad hoc.

2. There will be at least three ownership roles outside the development of the project. Choose a leader for each.
 - a. Set up product owner meetings and lead the meeting. Thomas Whitworth
 - b. Set the Team Git Repository? - Yassine Ben Addi
 - c. Setup and manage the product backlog. – Robert Daniels

3. How will the team interact and what collaborative technologies will it use?

Using Discord for text communication and screen share. Github for PR and conversations.

4. How quickly are members expected to respond to email?

48 hours on e-mail and PR conversation topics

5. How will the team make decisions?

Each individual on their user story has preference, and at least one other individual must approve the PR before merge. In cases of conflict, majority wins. Individuals in the “Losing” side will be able to petition the professor if it is believed to cause severe project issues

6. How should the team resolve conflicts?

First: attempt to resolve on Discord,

Second; if unable to resolve, attempt to resolve in class over break

Third: involve professor
